A Chance for Northern Farmers.

Are you tired of our cold northern winters, with their sickness and disease?

Are you tired worrying over the danger of a crop failure and consequent financial ruin?

Are you tired of working hard all season without a fair financial return on your efforts?

Do you want to avoid all this, and live in a country where the air is always balmy and the climate healthy; where crop failures are unknown and financial troubles vanish; where land can be bought cheaply and taxes are almost nothing; where churches and schools are plentiful and the country thickly settled?

All of these advantages can be secured along the lines of a double tracked railroad, and with the greatest markets in the United States at your very door.

A postal or letter addressed to the undersigned will bring you FREE OF CHARGE, descriptive matter and full particulars.

OUT OF WORK.

Tragedy of Unemployment to the Man Who Is Aged.

The tragedy of unemployment deepens in the case of those men who are visibly aging, passing prematurely into that condition when society has neither use nor regard for their services. The development of the modern city life in its feverish thirst for gain sucks up the activities of the young. Work can always be found for the children. But the man of forty has already become suspect. At fifty there is evidently stretching before him the bleak old age of the unwanted poor.

The despairing clutch of the aging at any degrading occupation which before they would have scorned is one of the commonest and pitifullest sights of modern life. I think of those whom I have known, those who dye their hair to keep the appearance of youth, the applicants for positions, their efforts toward respectability, the ink lined coat, the shabbiness concealed, the attempt, always so grotesque and ineffective, to strike the right note between a dignity that will command respect and an eagerness that will become a mere mendicant pleading for aid.

I remember one with a record of over thirty years' consistent service, exhibiting hands twisted and gnarled with disease, who shuffled daily through his work with the help of kindly comrades, fearing each day to be detected. Though the work itself is an agony, the one panic fear is not that he shall be compelled but that he shall be forbidden to continue. I think of others tucked away out of sight in the recesses of tenement dwellings, flung aside from the active machinery of the world, who "cannot quite bring themselves" to join the unemployed processions or solicit a promiscuous charity of the crowd, who cling to the desperate hope that one day the cloud will lighten, the miracle happen that some one will be found desiring their services. This is in no austere and frugal community, with difficulty supporting its children, but amid wealth pouring into its borders beyond the dreams of avarice and such luxury and vain display as can only be paralleled in the later days of Rome.—Independent Review.

When a man has his picture taken with his family he shows on his face the graphic force that he was forced into. —Atchison Globe.

FAMOUS BATTLE SONGS.

Two Instances Where the Tide Was Turned by Singing Them.

There are two instances on record of a battle being won by a war song. In the fifth century Germanus, bishop of Auxerre, and Lupus, bishop of Troyes, were sent into Britain to refute the doctrines of Pelagius. During their stay in this island the Picts and Scots, hearing that the Roman legion had been withdrawn, commenced hostilities and drove the Britons from the northern to the more southern parts of the island. Germanus, at the request of the hard pressed islanders, led them against the Picts and Scots, who had advanced as far as Mold, in Flintshire.

The bishop, having been a military commander in his youth, placed his men in an advantageous position and then started one of the songs of the church. This song began at the commencement of the battle, and so vociferously did the Britons sing the refrain, "Halleluia," that the hills, echoing with the sound, terrified their enemies and caused them to flee in all directions. This was called the halleluia victory. The tide was fixed by all historians at A. D. 420.

The second instance occurred on the 6th of November, 1702, when the French, under Dumouriez, encountered the Austrians at Jemmapes, in Belgium. The day was going dark against the French, when Dumouriez ran out to the front and called the "Marseillaise." Forty thousand voices instantly took up the chorus, and, inspired by the magic of the battle song, the French rallied and fell so furiously upon the Austrians that the tide of battle was completely turned and victory given for defeat.—Pearson's Weekly.

HAWTHORNE'S WORKS.

The High Standard They Have Set For American Literature.

Two things are to be remembered when Hawthorne's name is mentioned. First, the glory he reflects upon American literature. Little has been done by us in letters or art that is quite of the highest order except the works of Hawthorne. These have the clear promise of perpetuity. The themes are of supreme and universal interest. His plots are simple and his characters are in commensurate form. He is not a preacher to cry aloud, but an artist who paints, yet not without a heart that throbs in pity and a fancy that mingles over the wonder of it and will not suffer the pall of darkness to hang over it forever.

Second, the fact that Hawthorne is an author whose work in these high fields of thought is crowned with unimpeachable honor and is sure of perpetual remembrance is a constant satisfaction as years go by.

But Hawthorne has a wider claim upon our gratitude—namely, the fact that he has set the seal of glorious achievement in letters upon the moral laws of our nature. The greatest things done in literature have been of this sort. They alone, from Job down are remembered and cherished in the ages. Hawthorne is our only exponent of Dante and St. Paul and all great moralists—whatever a man does to another he does to himself, whether it be good or evil. Men will forever dwell in this truth and will never forget those effed souls who see it clearly and set it forth in perfect forms of literary art.—Century.

PATENT—DICINES.

A man that compounds or invents something that is just a little better than the next best thing is certainly entitled to the best share of the profits to be derived from the sale of the article.

So he patents or copyrights to protect his interests. Patented goods are good goods, poor goods are never patented. We have 20 years of trial behind us to give us the assurance that we have the best medicine compounded for the cure of dyspepsia, sick headache, biliousness, indigestion and all stomach disorders. We protect the public as well as our selves by keeping the formula a secret as long as we know it is made right and it cures these diseases. Druggists tell us that it is the one medicine that the sale is ever on the increase. To get the best remedy for dyspepsia or indigestion ask the druggists for Dr. Gunn's Improved Liver Pills; price 25c per box only one for a dose. Sold by Stone & Mercer, Druggists.

At the Top of the Ladder.

A woman whose acquaintance with the methods and opportunities of work in a modern newspaper office is of the slightest was talking to a friend about her son's start in life. The young man had just left college and had secured a position as reporter on one of the important New York dailies in the humble capacity which is the usual lot of the "cub" journalist, that of a police court reporter. His mother was enthusiastic over his good fortune.

"Do you know," she exclaimed, "they've given him such a splendid position. He's the crime editor at the police court!"—Harper's Weekly.

WEAK HEARTS

are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, the stomach expands—swells, and pushes up against the heart. This crowds the heart and shortens the breath. Rapid heart beats and heart disease is the final result. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat, takes the strain off the heart, cures indigestion, dyspepsia, sour stomach and contributes nourishment, strength and health to every organ of the body. Sold by Stone & Mercer and Frank G. Bland.

THE EARLIEST COMEDY.

It Was Played at Athens by the First Traveling Actors.

The first recorded comedy was played at Athens, B. C. 478, when Saurion and Dolon, the earliest traveling actors, performed a comedy of Saurion's composition on a movable stage mounted upon four wheels. The new form of play was so successful that the actors were rewarded by the grateful populace with a cask of wine and a basket of figs.

Saurion belonged to Megaris, a state of ancient Greece, whose inhabitants were celebrated for their coarse humor, and who in their villages during the evenings, were wont to hold what they called a komos; really a revel, in which impromptu acting, coupled with buffoonery, played a considerable part. From this word we have our comedy.

In England the old miracle plays generated very early into what but for their religious associations were mere farces, but the first purely English comedy was one by Udall, an assistant master at Eton, and subsequently head master of Westminster school. It was entitled "Ralph Roister Doister" and seems to have been performed in London about 1551, being published in 1598, ten years after its author's death.

WAS WASTING AWAY.

The following letter from Robert R. Watts, of Salem, Mo., is instructive: "I have been troubled with kidney disease for the last five years. I lost flesh and never felt well, doctored with leading physicians and tried all remedies suggested without relief. Finally, I tried Foley's Kidney Cure and less than two bottles completely cured me and I am now sound and well." Sold by Stone & Mercer, Wells & Haymaker and R. J. Oris.

STRANGE RAT TRAPS.

The Way Ostrich Eggs Are Utilized in Coptic Churches.

Ostrich eggs are regarded by the Copts as the natural emblem of watchfulness, and practical effect is given to this among those people by the very curious use to which they put them in their public buildings, particularly in those devoted to the celebration of divine worship. Whoever enters a Coptic church cannot fail to notice the numerous ostrich eggs which hang above and around him.

The explanation is simple. The churches are much infested by rats, and these animals, as experience has shown, have been in the habit of crawling down the cords by which the lamps are suspended, for the purpose of getting at the oil and drinking it. To guard against these four footed thieves the cord belonging to each lamp is passed through the shell of an ostrich egg, which is thus fixed at a moderate distance above the lamp. The smooth polished surface of the shell offers an impassable barrier to the wily and voracious rodents, so that they invariably slide off and tumble to the ground if they attempt a passage.

An Old Fashioned Salve.

An old recipe used for over 100 years in the writer's family and excellent for gatherings, cuts, chilblains, etc., is made thus: Put one-quarter of a pound of pure beeswax, one-quarter of a pound of rosin and one-quarter of a pound of nutmeg in a tin. Melt in a saucepan of boiling water. When the mixture has thoroughly dissolved stir and pour it into little pots or jars. It is an old fashioned but most effective remedy.—New York News.

THIN PEOPLE.

Thin, scrawny, fleshless people are usually nervous, irritable, bilious and dyspeptic. Every change of weather affects them, if they happen to eat or drink anything containing disease germs it develops at once, and they are the first subjects of any contagious disease coming into the neighborhood. Their life is a continual worry. In their efforts to avoid exposure to damp and malarious atmospheres. People can gain from 1 to 1 1/2 lbs. of solid healthy flesh per week by the use of Dr. Gunn's Blood and Nerve Tonic; it puts their system in condition to resist sickness. This Tonic is in tablet form, to be taken right after meals. Sold by all druggists for 75c per box or 3 boxes for $2. It turns the food you eat into strong, rich blood; this prevents and cures disease. People tell us who have used the Tonic that it cures them, then keeps them from getting sick afterward. Sold by Stone & Mercer, Druggists.
